FOLLOW UP QUESTIONS FOR LIVE INTERVIEW AFTER WEB FORM SCREENING SUBMISSION

Web form: <https://claude.ai/code/artifact/0e903b2d-6c38-49a6-8be0-d93ff56b0d71>

Covers two screener profiles treated as one recruiting bucket:

- Churned automation users.
- Churned LPs.

They tried at some level and left. The exit reason is the target info.
Target length 30 minutes. Spine takes roughly half. Branch and re-entry take the rest.

Ground rules

Do not describe ADAPose. If they ask, say you'll explain at the end, and actually do it; it might actually be a good idea to do anyways after they've just rationalized everything else to see how attractive a managed solution would be to them.

Reconstruct the timeline before asking about the exit. People rationalize quitting. The first reason offered is usually constructed after the fact, not the trigger. Establish what the active period looked like, then walk forward into the exit, and the real cause tends to surface on its own. Get the story not just how they justify it to themselves after the fact.

Track whether management burden comes up unprompted. If you have to introduce the concept before they agree with it, it is not their pain. Note this explicitly for every interview. It is worth more than any answer given after you have named the thing.

Follow specifics, not categories. When they name a pool, a pair, a number, or a date, go there. Generic answers mean you have drifted into opinion territory and should get back to a concrete instance.

Section 1: Active period

- When did you start, when did you stop
- At your peak, what were you running: how many positions, which chains, roughly what size
- Walk me through a normal week back then, what did managing your positions entail
- What was working well for you at the time
- What were you struggling with

Section 2: The exit

- Was there a moment or a particular event that changed your mentality
- What were the last positions, strategies, platforms you were utilizing
- Did you actively close things, or let them sit out of range and stop caring
- Before you quit, what else did you consider trying first - why was it not enough to keep you involved

Section 3: Where the capital went

- What did you do with the capital post LP positioning
- Is it earning anything now? In what ways is it being deployed, and roughly what rate
- How does that compare to what you were making in LPs

Branch A: churned automation users

- How did you find the platforms you were using
- What were you looking for those platforms to do for you
- Did they do all the things you were looking for or was there something they didn't do you wish they had
- How did the platform(s) work?
- What surprised you about it/them, what disappointed you about them
- Did it ever do something you did not expect or did not want
- Did you ever increase the amount you allocated to any of the platforms? What made you, or what stopped you
- What did it cost you, and could you see what you were paying as you went
- What were the average returns it was earning you?
- Were the returns worth the fees it was costing you?
- Was there something that would have kept you using the platform instead of leaving?
- When you stopped using it, did you go back to managing yourself or leave entirely

Branch B: churned LPs

- Did you ever use any tools or platforms to help manage your LPs, even briefly
- Were there tools you looked for but couldn't find
- Did you know automation options existed at the time; if yes, why did you not utilize them
- What would you have needed to keep going
- If you had something that handled the day to day for you, would that have changed the decision (only ask last, it's leading)

If both apply

- Which came first, the tool failing or you losing interest in LPing
- Did the tool experience contribute to leaving the category entirely

Section 4: Re-entry

- Have you thought about getting back in? What prompted that
- What is stopping you from getting back in, specifically
- Have you looked at what is available since you left?

Section 5: Close

- Are you earning any yield on-chain currently
- Anything I should have asked
- Who else should I be talking to

Per-interview capture

Fields to record for every session, for the entry-based data system:

- Cohort tag: churned_automation, churned_lp, or both
- Peak position count, peak capital range, chains, DEXes
- Active window: start and stop, approximate
- Exit type: moment or fade
- Stated exit reason, verbatim
- Reconstructed exit reason after timeline, if different from stated
- Capital destination and current yield
- Burden surfaced unprompted: yes or no
- Considered-before-quitting list
- Has looked at current options since leaving: yes or no
- Platform named, if applicable, plus allocation ceiling and whether it ever increased
- Reclassify as migration: yes or no
